RESEARCH & TEACHING INTERESTS

- Comparative and International Education
- Language Policy, Multilingualism, and Education
- Education Policy Enactment and Institutional Change
- Postcolonial Education and Educational Development
- Qualitative and Mixed Methods Research
- Critical and Multimodal Discourse Analysis
- Critical AI Literacy in Multilingual and Language Education (emerging)

RESEARCH INSTRUMENTS AND FRAMEWORKS

- Translanguaging Classroom Experience Scale (TCES) — instrument under development (not yet validated): a 24-item, six-domain scale measuring Senegalese secondary students' experiences of translanguaging pedagogy, with a 41-page instrument manual outlining nine validation phases; theoretically anchored in Ubuntu Translanguaging Theory, Sociocultural Theory, Community Cultural Wealth, Decolonial Theory, and Critical Language Awareness.

- Integrated Multi-Level Qualitative Analytical Framework (IMQAF) — developed for the UCAD dissertation, combining macro (national policy), meso (institutional mediation), and micro (classroom enactment) levels to trace how Communicative Language Teaching policy is interpreted and enacted across Senegalese secondary schools; situated within the broader macro-meso-micro tradition of language policy research (Kaplan & Baldauf, 2003; Spolsky, 2009), with closely related recent work applying a comparable multi-level design to English-medium instruction (Rahman & Hu, 2026).
